1	The US SEC extended the deadline for disclosure of information by public companies attacked by corona virus. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) said on Wednesday it will extend the terms of the disclosure deadline for public companies affected by the corona virus outbreak. . In an SEC statement, the deadline will be for applications submitted by July 1. Earlier this month, the agency said it would provide a 45-day extension. Applications may be submitted between April 1 and April 30.	Positive (+)
2	The British industry expects a plan for ventilator production to be approved on Wednesday. According to three sources told Reuters, the British industry hopes the government will make plans to produce emergency ventilators on Wednesday and that the industry will witness a number of companies joining forces to tackle the virus outbreak. corona. The source said that Airbus, Smiths, Ford and McLaren are among the different companies that will be involved in this process, with the idea that at some level, whether creating components or both. With a complete breathing machine, this plan should start next week. Companies will offer a range of solutions including 3D printing, manufacturing specific parts, assembly and business planning. The British government declined to comment on the exact timing or details of the ventilator production plan.	Neutral

3	The British Prime Minister said he would support free workers in the "next few days". On Wednesday, British Prime Minister Vladimir Johnson said the government would set out "in the next few days" to support free workers to help them cope with the corona virus outbreak. Finance Minister Rishi Sunak said on Tuesday that the government was studying measures to help self-employed workers, many of whom had lost their income due to the outbreak, but had problems that arise. with practicality and fairness in doing so. Mr. Johnson also said the government would lift nationwide travel restrictions as soon as possible, knowing that it would be safe to do so.	Positive (+)
4	Some countries are moving towards food protectionism. More and more countries are signing commitments against export controls and other barriers to the trade of food and other necessities during the Covid-19 pandemic. But some countries are leaning in the other direction. Kazakhstan, one of the world's largest flour shippers, only ban exports of that flour along with other foods, including carrots, sugar and potatoes. Vietnam Customs Department has ordered to stop exporting rice on Tuesday to ensure domestic food security. Serbia has stopped the flow of sunflower oil and other goods. Russia, the largest producer in the global cereal market, is leaving the possibility of a ban on deliveries and saying it assesses the situation weekly.	Positive (+)

	What happens raises a question: Is this the beginning of a wave of food protection that will continue to disrupt supply chains and trade flows? The crisis has forced many governments to reassess their domestic food reserves. India says it will have enough grain reserves as a reserve to feed the poor for at least a year and a half. China, the world's largest rice producer and consumer, has revamped its price policy for staples and has pledged to buy this year's harvest with a record amount.
5	U.S. cybersecurity experts said there has been a recent spike in Chinese digital espionage. FireEye Inc. said in a report they found a spike in the activity of a hacking group they named "APT41" starting on January 20 and targeting more than 75 of their customers, from manufacturers and media companies to health care organizations and nonprofits. The report said it was "one of the biggest campaigns of a Chinese cyber espionage action we have observed in recent years." FireEye said in its report that APT41 abused recently disclosed vulnerabilities in software developed by Cisco and Citrix and attempted to penetrate the networks of companies in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Singapore and more than a dozen other countries.	Neutral
6	Oil prices fluctuated as demand fell, but stimulated hope for upcoming support. Oil prices were volatile Thursday after three days of gains, with prospects for demand falling sharply due to the corona virus travel ban and travel restrictions, which offset the hope of an emergency stimulus worth two thousand. billion US dollars will boost economic activity. ### 3. CRYPTOCURRENCIES MARKET COMMENT:

BTC

1st Support Level (Long term)	$760-1,700	1st Resistance Level ( day)	$8,800-$9,500
2nd Support Level (week)	$1,800-3,700	2nd Resistance Level ( week)	$8,000-$8,500
3rd Support Level (day)	$3,700-$4,000	3rd Resistance Level ( Long term)	$7,200-$7,700
4th Support Level (short term)	$5,000-$5,400	4th Resistance Level ( Long term)	$6,100-$6,200

- After a continuous recovery from the bottom of $ 4,000, the price of BTC is currently above the $ 6,200 area and is having a bit of a hurdle around the $ 7,000 area. Although the gains over the past few days have been positive, trading volumes do not support the trend, so there will be a slight correction coming soon with a short-term destination that could be around $ 6,000-6,200 and in the case of more negatively, the price will be around $ 5,500 with better support but less likely. In the short-term, BTC needs to conquer the previous short-term peak area around $ 6,900-7,000 before going to the $ 7200-7,700 area.
- Currently BTC is conquering the previously lost HT thresholds, if successfully conquered, the medium-term trend will officially change the trend. In the long run, the trend remains unchanged.

Recommendation:

- Short-term investors can reduce their available positions before the decline when prices return to around $ 7,200-7,400 and place buy orders around $ 4,000-5,500 or $ 6,000-6,200 in a more positive situation. Long-term investors can consider opening a position as prices move around the $ 4,000-4,500 $ 3,800 and $ 1,900 areas.

ETH

1st Support Level (Long term)	$50	1st Resistance Level ( day)	$200-255
2nd Support Level (week)	$85	2nd Resistance Level ( week)	$194-200
3rd Support Level (day)	$90	3rd Resistance Level ( Long term)	$164-180
4th Support Level (sort term)	$100-120	4th Resistance Level ( Long term)	$135-146

- There is a balance between the buyers and the sellers, the price is currently going around $ 135, although the indicators all show an uptrend in the near future, the correction can still occur when the price continues to go. horizontal to the coming days. If ETH breaks out of the $ 135 zone, it is possible to move up and conquer the $ 164 zone in the near future, although there is still an important threshold that needs to be crossed before the $ 146 zone. The trading volume is relatively weak in recent days, which shows that it takes time to overcome the above KC thresholds, the safest and most stable situation should be to accumulate sideways and then overtake. Sustainable recovery trend.
- If ETH cannot conquer the previous HT thresholds, it will confirm a trend change in the medium term. The long-term trend is currently unchanged.

Recommendation:

- Short-term investors can reduce the previous proportion when the price is around $ 164 and set a buy position at around $ 120-122 or $ 135. Long-term investors can continue to buy around $ 122, $ 84 or $ 40 if the ETH price continues to weaken.

4. GENERAL INVESTMENT RECOMMENDATIONS:

- Short-term investors can invest in the central areas of KC as analyzed above.
- Long-term investors can reserve positions in the expected areas as analyzed above.
- With the recent sharp decline, BTC price is unlikely to recover immediately. This recovery requires a cumulative period of sideways movement or there could be another decline as a test of investors' willingness to buy. Investors who do not like surfing may reduce the proportion in the coming short-term rally. Long-term investors can consider increasing the micro when the price continues to decline to the expected price areas.
